

CLE Presented by the Attorney General's Office

Innocent Until Interrogated: The Story of the Buddhist Temple Massacre and the Tucson Four
by Gary Stuart, Esq.

Using Gary Stuart's new book Innocent Until Interrogated, which is based upon the true story of two seemingly unrelated 1991 murder cases in Arizona, the panel will explore the dilemma of the coerced confession – why would an innocent person confess to murder? Gary Stuart will lead the panel and the audience in a discussion focused on what should be learned from the cases described in the book and whether Arizona's criminal and civil justice systems are compliant with evolving legal and societal standards regarding suspect interrogation and confession evidence in court.

Gary Stuart, Esq. of Gary L Stuart PC
Tim Nelson, Chief Deputy of the Arizona Attorney General's Office
Kent Cattani, Section Chief Counsel of the Capital Litigation Section
